POETRY.

The Drunkard's Home.

By JAMES STEPHEN.

The drunkard's home! What words can show

The scenes of misery there?

What mind conceive, what heart can know,

Save those compelled to share?

The abode of wickedness complete,

Whence every comfort's fled,

Where want, disease and ruin meet,

And every hope is dead!

The drunkard's home more cheerless far,

Than even convict's cell,

With granite wall, and iron bar,

For guilty one to dwell:

Or better for the vaults of death,

For there all suff'ring cease,

And care-worn pilgrims yield their breath,

And sleep the deep of peace.

The drunkard's home! the rock strands

Where honor shipwrecked lies,

The den where Murder dies his hand,

Where Virtue, poisoned, dies;

Where Vice spreads round its filthy

slime;

Where falsehood forms her fair,

The haunt of Infamy and crime,

Of Madness and Dispair!

The drunkard's home! ye gen'rous

youth,

Yet from intemperance free,

Attend the warning voice of truth,

And from the poison fise:

Touch not the cup of liquid fire,

Beware of habit's chain,

Quench the first spark of wild desire,

And spurn the damning bane.

From the London Weekly Leader.

Good-Bye.

Farewell! farewell! is often heard

From the lips of those we part;

Tis a whisper'd tone—'tis a gentle word,

But it's not from the heart,

It may serve for the lover's closing lay,

To bese the sunnier sky;

But give to me the lips that say

The honest word—Good-bye!

Adieu! adieu! may greet the ear,

In the guise of courtly speech;

But when we leave the kind and dear,

Tis not what the soul would teach.

Whene'er we grasp the hands of those

We would have forever nigh;

The flame of Friendship bursts and

grows,

For the loved one's future life,

No cold "adieu," no "farewell" lives

Within the closing sign,

But the deepest sob of anguish gives

"God bless the boy! Good-bye!"

Adieu! adieu! may greet the ear,

In the guise of courtly speech;

But when we leave the kind and dear,

Tis not what the soul would teach.

Whene'er we grasp the hands of those

We would have forever nigh;

The flame of Friendship bursts and

grows,

For the loved one's future life,

No cold "adieu," no "farewell" lives

Within the closing sign,

But the deepest sob of anguish gives

"God bless the boy! Good-bye!"

Adieu! adieu! may greet the ear,

In the guise of courtly speech;

THE REPUBLICAN
Jacksonville, Alabama.
Tuesday, September 17, 1850

Mr. JOHN B. WHITE, of the House of Ready & Houghton, is our authorized agent to receive and receipt for subscriptions, advertising, &c., in the city of Wetumpka.

We have placed a number of notes and accounts due us in Cherokee County, in the hands of Mr. E. A. Colton, who is authorized to receive and receipt for subscriptions, &c.

We have had the pleasure of reading a letter from California, from Mr. Amos T. Laird to his father in this place. The letter is dated at Novato, July 14th 1850. After giving a general outline of his travels by land to that country since he left this place about fourteen months ago, he states among other items of interest, that he has done very well since he commenced operations at that place about the 23d of June. In consequence of the great scarcity of water however himself and a Mr. Williams has given $1,200 for the use of water brought from the mountains. He states that out of one pint, 33 feet by 8 he had selected two pints of dirt, measuring 12 quarts, from which he washed gold to the value of fifty-one dollars and twenty-five cents; and thinks that the pit will yield from one to five hundred dollars per day to the hand, several of whom he has employed at ten dollars per day. Mr. Laird does not think the region where gold may be found as extensive as has been represented by many; and notwithstanding the many cases of great success, there are yet many disappointments among the hundreds of thousands here.

The Committee on the Post offices and Post Roads in the U. S. Senate have made a report, containing much valuable statistical information respecting the best system of mail communication in this country and England. Some important changes in our present system, are recommended in this report: among others the abolition of the franking privilege—the reduction of postage to the uniform rate of two cents on letters for all distances requiring prepayment of postage in all cases, and admitting small parcels, other than letters to be conveyed by mail chargeable by weight.

We invite the attention of those interested in the business card of Messrs. Adams, Hopkins & Co., Augusta, and Wills & Co., Savannah. It is only necessary for the public to know that they still have the privilege of availing themselves of the assistance of this long and well known firm in purchase of supplies, and in the general receiving and forwarding business.

Jenny Lind.

A perfect mania is raging in N. York about the "Swedish Nightingale."—The Gothamites are fairly becoming Jenny Lind mad. We had prepared a column of matter culled from the New York papers, giving a full description of her arrival in that city, but we are compelled to leave it out to-day for the want of room. We will publish it in our next. Strange scenes and incidents are recorded, showing the high pitch of enthusiasm to which the New Yorkers have suffered themselves to be carried.

On the arrival of the Atlantic at the wharf, forty thousand folks—big, pard, on—thousand people rushed down to the pier, half frantic with curiosity and delight, making the very heavens ring their shouts and cheers of welcome and showering upon her pathway her carriage and herself, countless thousands of flowers and bouquets. Her hotel was besieged, for hours by a dense mass of beings, endeavoring to catch but a glimpse of her face and form.—This beats the spontaneous combustion of gun powder, Taylorism all hollow.

Montgomery Atlas.

The Foot of the Mexican Female.—In this all nations, I think must yield to the palm of Mexico.—The females of that country have the smallest and best-formed ankles I ever saw. They usually wear slippers rarely the bootees, and these, even upon the foot of the leperas, the poorest peasant girl must be silk or satin. The heel is generally down, the front part very low scarcely covering the toe, and how they manage to hold on to the tiny little thing, walking carefully and gracefully all the while is a theorem that has puzzled a good many. But they do it, and we must set it down as a sight of foot trick.

There has been a fearful storm which has done much injury to the crops, and blown down the telegraphic wires along the region of the eastern part of the State.

The DRUNKARD'S WILL.—Leave to society a ruined character, a wretched example, and a memory that will soon rot.

Leave to my parents, during the rest of their lives as much sorrow as humanity in a feeble and desperate state can sustain.

Leave to my brothers and sisters as much mortification and injury as I well could bring on them.

Leave to my wife a broken heart, a life of wretchedness, shame to weep over, and a premature death.

Leave to each of my children poverty, ignorance, a low character, and the remembrance that their father was a drunkard.

HIGH, LOW, JACK AND THE GAME.—A number of well dressed boys were once tormenting a drunken sailor, who in vain endeavored to keep them off with a broken spade handle, which he was using for a club, when a gentleman called out to them, "Boys! if Jack is high, it is rather low business for you to be making game of him." Jack, whose wits were as sharp as a diamond—the principal difficulty with him seeming to be in the lightness of his feet, or the unsteadiness of the ground under them which made his easiest mode of progression to be on all fours—immediately responded: "Then we are even, I am high Jack to their low game. But clubs is traps, the dice is in me if I don't beat 'em yet to my hearts content."

Plank Road Meeting.

A meeting of a portion of the citizens of Villa Rica and vicinity J. B. Wick, Esq. was called to the chair, and P. M. Rice, requested to act as Secretary.

The object of the meeting being explained by the chairman which was to consider the utility and propriety of constructing a Plank Road from the city of Atlanta by the way of Villa Rica to Jacksonville, Alabama.

Whereupon it was Resolved, That the Chairman appoint a committee of two to correspond with the citizens of Atlanta and Augusta, and Jacksonville, also to invite them and all others who may feel interested in the contemplated enterprise to meet with us at Villa Rica at a subsequent day to be appointed by the committee.

The cholera has nearly disappeared from Harper's Ferry.

In Boston there have been three cases of the disease.

The chairman appointed the following gentlemen as that committee S. C. Chandler, L. H. Davis, A. H. Harrison, D. H. Witcher, T. C. H. Wilson, J. B. Wick, Esq.

Villa Rica Aug. 29th 1850.
P. M. RICE, Secy.

We have placed a number of notes and accounts due us in Cherokee County, in the hands of Mr. E. A. Colton, who is authorized to receive and receipt for subscriptions, advertising, &c.

We have had the pleasure of reading a letter from California, from Mr. Amos T. Laird to his father in this place. The letter is dated at Novato, July 14th 1850.

The committee having met and organized, do appoint Thursday the 19th inst. as a day suitable for our next meeting. We would here extend a most cordial and pressing invitation to the citizens of Atlanta, Augusta, Jacksonville, and all others who feel an interest in the prosperity of this portion of our State, to meet with us at that time.

Addressess will be delivered upon the utility and importance of Plank Roads, generally and particularly of this route. With regard to this route however we feel satisfied that it is the most practical route in the state in as much as it connects Atlanta with a very extensive cotton growing country both in Georgia and Alabama.

We say again come one come all.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Atlanta Intelligencer, Augusta Constitutionalist, & Chronicle & Sentinel, and Jacksonville Republican, and request their earliest insertion.

THE ATLAS EXTRA.

MONTGOMERY, SEPT. 7.—A. M. The following dispatch was received last night after our paper had gone to press.

Arrival of the Hibernia, ADVANCE IN COTTON.

Times Threatening in France!

BALTIMORE, 4th Sep., P. M.

The Hibernia arrived at Halifax 10 o'clock this morning. Since the sailing of the Atlantic Cotton has advanced one eighth of a penny, speculating reaction having taken place; sales of the day being from 10 to 12,000 of the week 37,000 £15,000 to speculators and 13,000 to exporters. Fair upland Mobile quoted 18-12; Orleans 81-2. Have market dull.

Allairs look stormy in France. The president was turned out of a ball room at Briscom. The room had to be cleared at the point of the bayonet. The Holstein forces were marching in the direction of the Danish forces.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 8, P. M.

The steamer Isthmus had arrived at Panama with San Francisco dates to the 17th inst.

The crescent City brings 102 passengers among whom are Commodore Jones, Capt. Williams, Lieuts. Duer and McJannigan, of the Navy, and Capt. Hatch of the Rifle Corps.

There is a large amount of gold in the hands of the passengers & considerable on freight.

American flour was selling at fourteen dollars.

Advices from the mines were favorable.

The general news possessed no importance beyond what the Philadelphia brings.

Gov. Barnett had declined calling an extra session of the Legislature.

Information has been received at Stockton that twelve men had been found murdered and robbed.

Later from California.

N. Y. Sept. 5.

The Empire City arrived from Charges with San Francisco dates of Aug.

She brings $1,00,000 in gold. The Georgia (which has not yet arrived) has $1,500,000. The Panama has arrived at Panama with two weeks later news.

She and the cholera on board at Acapulco and 149 of her passengers died.

The Empire City brings 200 souls, it being boarded the Georgia. The accounts from California are very cheering.

ANARCHY AT THE MINE.—We are in a state of bad to worse. The mines are in an arms, irritated beyond endurance, and there is a universal hatred against foreigners. Resolutions have been passed to drive all Mexicans from the mines at the Mormon gulch. They have received notices to quit in fifteen days or they will be expelled by force.

The citizens of Stockton held a meeting in the Orange House in view of the alarming state of affairs in San Joaquin.

in consequence on the recent cruel murders perpetrated by a band of lawless robbers who infest the routes to the mines of that region. They adopted means to restore quiet and bring the guilty to justice.

It is ordered by the Court, that the petition be recorded, and the No.

it is the intention to let out the grading, masonry and bridging of the remainder of the Southern division and of the Northern division terminating at Gadsden with all possible despatch.

POETRY

From "Graham's Magazine," July.

A Legend of Tyrol.

By J. T. FIELDS.

A green sheltered nook where a mountain was guarding the peace-haunted ground,
A maiden, whose smile was the sunlight,
That gilded the hill-sides around.

For there seemed a musical echo,
Whose notes wandered down from the hills,
And wherever she walked in her beauty
Strang blossoms of joy and of love.

As she stood at her door in the morning,
The hunter below' riding by,
Cried out to his comrade, "We're early!
For look, there's a star in the sky!"

At the chappel, when good men were praying,
Those angels of God would appear,
Every heart turned to her, lowly kneeling,
And felt that an angel was near.

Thus radiant and pure in her presence,
A blessing she moved day by day,
Till a proud lord beheld her, and loved her,
And led her forever away.

He bore this bright bird of the mountain,
Watched over and shielded the best,
From the home of her youth, and her kindred,
Away to his own haughty nest.

And lo! the fair idols in waiting,
Beset her for worship and won;
And the light of her beautiful childhood
Went down like the swift fading sun.

And sudden as rises the black cloud
When tempests the thunder gods start,
Strange wishes encircled her bosom;
And pride swept the halls of her heart.

And once, when o'er mastered by anger,
Her golden-haired boy sought her side.
In her fury she smote down her first born,
And he fell like a lily and died.

There were tears, burning tears, to recall him,
One anguish that scorches the brain,
But the harp strings of life never answered.
The touch that would tune them again!

She sleeps in a dark mausoleum,
And ages have rolled o'er her head,
But her name is remembered in Tyrol,
As when she was laid with the dead.

And to-day as the traveler sits weary,
And drinks from the rude fountain-
bowl,
They tell the sad story and whisper,
The warning that speaks to your soul.

AGRICULTURAL.

HINTS TO OVERSEERS.

Mr. Editor:—Some overseers think if they keep a tolerably clean crop they are doing well; the condition of the mules, horses, fences, gates, farming tools, horse lots and stables, and stock of all kinds, are left to shift for themselves; and are not taken into consideration. Overseers, if they do their duty, will have mules and horses well attended to—fed regularly with a given amount, suited once a week, and rubbed and curried; the stables and lots will also be kept clean, and the MANURE TAKEN CARE OF. Mules and horses will not fail to show their keeping. When once the hipbones of mules "stick out," no matter how much they have to plow, (for any sound horse or mule, if taken care of, can plow as much as any hand with out injury,) you may put it down at once that they are either irregularly and badly fed, or otherwise grossly neglected.

Overseers are also deficient, even if they attend to mules and horses, keep clean crops, and good gates and fences, and do not attend to other stock on the plantation.

Again, if overseers neglect to ENFORCE THE RULES OF MORALITY on the plantation, they are in the highest degree unfit for their station. This may be obnoxious to some—

—I am sorry to say it, even employers—but I trust the time may come when morality and virtue shall be looked upon as an essential qualification for any lawful avocation. Overseers, too, who are "dirty dogs" themselves, must not expect the negroes under their charge to be anything else.

If we would raise the standard of our profession, let us act uprightly, attend to our business closely, and be paid for our trouble.

AN OVERSEER.

June, 1850.

IMPORTING STOCK.

Mr. Editor:—I trust, I shall not be intruding on you, nor on your valuable work, if I ask permission to insert the following:

In the last number of your Southern Cultivator, under the head of "Importing Company," it is proposed that a Joint Stock Cattle Company be formed, with a capital sufficient to import from the best herds and flocks, in England and Europe.

Allow me, Mr. Editor, to offer a few remarks; It is proposed that a competent agent be selected, to attend at the world's Industrial Association, to be held in London next year.

I think, by referring to the advertisement, that no cattle will be exhibited certainly there will not be a large quantity, and those not of the age to export. The majority of North Devon breeders living at least 100 miles from that place, would, as they have always done, when the English Agricultural Meeting, is held in the middle, and upper districts send just sufficient to win the premiums. The expense of railway and other travelling, is too much to take a large quantity.

Another remark I would offer. It will be seen that the meeting will take place in spring and the cattle would then be imported into a tropical climate in the summer. I would suggest that one of the company—and if they think proper, to select a person to accompany him—go at this season, and visit the farms and select from the different herdsmen that have been known to keep the pure breeds, otherwise they will fail in their wise endeavors and attach the blame to the stock imported. A cross with two breeds can take place, and the best judges will not detect it, but on the second or third cross it will be plainly shown, and those are the ones which are most likely to suffer from the chlamate or disease. Then is the time that it would be said, it is a breed that will not suit the climate, when in reality the error has been in the judgment of the purchasers, not in the cattle, which is a large loss to the company, and to this great and prosperous country. I would also recommend a general collection of animals and seeds, particularly that of grasses, turnip, wheat, &c., the cattle will require great care and attention, both in the selection of food & situation on board, having been nursed like children at home.

This is the season for sowing of turnips, which I strongly recommend to all breeders, of stock & owners of land. The Rutabaga or Swede is the profitable and valuable. It can be grown in this climate, at less than half the expense it can in many parts. The Vetch sown about the last week in October or first week in November, would be found a valuable crop, for horses, cattle, sheep hogs, &c. No crop is considered equal to it, and it would in this climate, be fit for the seedy by the first of April. For milch cows, it is considered superior to any other food; it could come in use when food of all sorts is scarce.

Some of the points characteristic of a good North Devon Cow, are as follows:

1. She should be clear in her nose, her eyes and her horn.

2. She should be small in her neck and fine in her shoulder.

3. She should be deep in her chest and fine in her pelvis.

4. She should be straight in her back and wide in her loins.

5. She should be round on her rib, spread well at the pin.

6. She is good at the pail in quantity and quality.

Then she is the farmer without the grazier within.

Yours respectfully,

A FRIEND TO AGRICULTURE,
ROME, August 30, 1850.

Tomatoe Anti Diarrhoea. The tomatoe is excellent for bilious affections and for dyspepsia. When we were publishing the Yankee Farmer, there was an article in that paper, on the healthful properties of the tomato, and the same paper contained a seed catalogue, in which was the seed tomato.

A person who had been severely afflicted with the dyspepsia for ten years, so that he could eat but very few common dishes of food, procured some tomato seed, of which he had previously no knowledge; and he raised some fruit and used it as food, and he had jellies and other preparations made in the fall, that he might use when the season for fresh tomatoes was over. By this simple remedy he was completely cured, in a few months of an obstinate disease, that had defied the best medical skill for ten long years, for so they must have seemed to the unfortunate invalid. Here we also have the important bearing which a single fact gives to a useful paper has upon a man's health, life, and interest generally.

Roberts, a man of great energy and a decided leader, turned to Mr. Burroughs, who replied: "The people of America are a people of progress, and the world is destined to be ruled by them." Burroughs, a victim of the Slave Power, was a gentleman who had sincerely believed in the religious principles which divided the country, he offered from his flock and left them. "Mother in his 'Wonders of the Invisible World,' conveys this idea, saying, 'he had removed from Salem Village in ill term some years before.'

The unhappy catastrophe, which terminated the life and usefulness of Mr. Burroughs, has cast a shade upon many facts relating to him, which would be interesting to us to know. "There has nothing," says Mr. Willis, in his history of Portland, "survived Mr. Burroughs either in his living or dying, that casts any reproach upon his character; and although he died a victim of a fanaticism as wicked and stupid as any which has been countenanced in civilized society, and which for a time prejudiced his memory, yet his character stands re-deemed in a more enlightened age from any blemish."

Mr. Burroughs was driven from Casco by the Indians in 1690, and went to Wells, where he resided when he was accused of witchcraft. The indictment against him was given in the second volume of Hutchinson. He was examined on May 8th, 1692, and committed to prison in Boston, until his trial, which took place in August following. He was condemned on testimony, which nothing but the most highly wrought infatuation could for a moment have endured. His great strength and activity, for which he has been remarkable from his youth, were enlisted against him, as having been derived from the Prince of Evil. It was in evidence that he had lifted a barrel of molasses by putting his finger in the bung-hole, and had carried it around him—that he held a gun more than seven feet long at arm's length with one hand, and performed other surprising feats above the power of humanity.

He was executed on gallows Hill in Salem. At his execution he made a most solemn, piteous and affecting prayer, which drew the remark from Cotton Mather, "who was present, 'that no man could have made such a prayer unless the devil helped him.'" The victim of this vile delusion concluded his dying petition with the Lord's Prayer, probably to convince some of the spectators that he was innocent; for it was the received opinion that a true witch or wizard could not say the Lord's Prayer without blundering. Four other persons convicted of the same charge were executed.

Calef in his "More wonders of the Invisible World," gives the following account of this execution: "Mr. Burroughs was carried in a cart with the others through the streets of Salem to the execution. When he was upon the ladder, he made a speech for the clearing of his innocence with such solemn and serious expression as won the admiration of all present. His prayer (which he concluded by repeating the Lord's Prayer) was well worded, and such (at least) seeming fervency of spirit as was very affecting and drew tears from many, (so that it seemed to some that the spectators could hinder his execution). The executioners said that the Black Man stood and dictated him.

As soon as he was turned off M. Calef in his "More wonders of the Invisible World," gives the following account of this execution: "Mr. Burroughs was carried in a cart with the others through the streets of Salem to the execution. ROMANCE OF REAL LIFE.

THE FEMALE BLOOMBOURG.—Much curiosity has been awakened during the last few weeks, by the appearance of a strange and foreign-looking carriage upon the drive, whose fair inmate, fair complexion, dark hair and forbidding countenance.—Capt. Hicks has in his possession a letter from two highly respectable gentlemen, W. H. Winslow Esq., and John H. Tabb Esq., of Mathews, stating the above description of the fugitive and assuring a large reward from their county, to those who may arrest him.—Norfolk Sept. 7th.

DEATH OF BISHOP BASCOM.—The telegraph communicates the intelligence of the death of Rev. Henry B. Bascom, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, which occurred at Louisville on Sunday last, the 8th inst. America is, in this bereavement, deprived of one of the most able and successful divines that she has ever possessed. In the peculiar school of pulpit oratory to which he belonged, Mr. Bascom was altogether without an equal. His vivid imagination, aided by a wonderful fluency, and sustained by the purest religious enthusiasm, poured forth such torments of burning eloquence as have seldom been listened to.

ONE GOOD THING DONE IN ENGLAND.—We see it stated in the late foreign accounts, that Gen. Haynau, the Austrian despot & butcher while lately in London visited an extensive Brewery at that city; while there he was assaulted by the hands of the establishment, severely beaten, and dragged over the ground by the moustache and hair, and his clothes torn off. He escaped death only by retreating and hiding in a closet.

FUGITIVE SLAVE BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE.—We learn from a Telegraphic despatch to the "Charleston Courier," that the House of Representatives passed the Fugitive Slave Bill on the 12th inst. by a vote of 109 to 75 nays.

Mr. Seward's bill, abolishing slavery in the District of Columbia, was rejected in the Senate on the same day by a very decisive vote.—Atlas.

BAYARD TAYLOR, OF THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE HAS RECEIVED THE PRIZE OF $200, FOR THE JENNY LIND SONG.

through the woods, who, sojourning the long weeks of solitude and tears, have laid upon this weary pilgrim.

Fugitive slaves are old of course, but the old are young in the eyes of the world. The old are not yet dead, but they have been within the last week. They are living, however, as some names in history, as common words, as a daily picture; but their long-aimed vengeance has reached them even here; and through their exertions alone, have they been conveyed beyond the frontier, and delivered up to the Austrian authorities; but so long as that dark blue carriage is seen slowly creeping up the champs Elysees we may be sure some other of the blood-stained criminals must be concealed in Harle. For more than three months it was believed creeping along as we now behold it, up and down the public promenades of the little town of Toul, where it had been discovered that the woman who cheered the men on amongst the crowd to commit the murder had sought refuge in disguise; and it was not until the very day that the unhappy creature was taken, bound and handcuffed between two gendarmes, through the eastern gate of the town, that the grand equipage, with its gloomy burden, was seen to hurry as fast as four horses could convey it on the road to Paris, still in pursuit of that revenge which is not yet completed.

They say that our greatest painter is engaged in painting a portrait of the unfortunate object of this sombre and fierce attachment, and that the favored few have been admitted to behold it in its unfinished state. It represents "our husk Lichnowski" (as he was called from his great personal beauty) in the costume and attitude which he bore upon the very morning of his death.—His magnificent countenance and splendid figure, attired in the black velvet coat, the cap and tassel, the buckskin breeches and the shining Hessian boots are all represented here to the life, as well as the window and the balcony from whence he breathed his last tender farewell, when he descended to the garden in order to "clasp the innocent canaille," armed with his riding whip alone. All grow beneath the painter's hand, as he follows the instructions of the desolate lady, who thus cheats her sorrow for a moment, while hugging her soul the memory of her last and dearest love.—Paris Correspondence London Paper.

A HORRIBLE MURDER.—It has seldom been for us to record a more cold-blooded murder than that committed in Mathews county day before yesterday. Capt. Sidney Lane, well known in this community as a sea Captain, was engaged with his brother, William Lane, in building a vessel in the above county where they both resided. A negro woman living near where the work was going on, picked up some chips from around the vessel, for which offence Sidney Lane beat her unmercifully. His brother hearing how badly the woman was whipped, went to his house Thursday morning to remonstrate with him for such cruel treatment to the negro so trifling an offence. He told Mr. Lane to leave him, that it was none of his business, and if he said more to him about it he would shoot him. His brother disregarded the threat, as no angry words had passed between them, whereupon he took up a double barrel gun and fired at him, one barrel taking effect in the face, the other in the body, when he fell to the floor. Finding he had not entirely killed him, he deliberately reloaded his gun and placing the muzzle directly against his breast shot the load through his body. Lane then took a canoe and crossed the river before a sufficient posse could be mustered to take him, and to the time our informant left was at large. It was thought that he would get on board the Baltimore Boat that evening, and a telegram dispatch was sent on here to be forwarded to Baltimore Thursday evening. The greatest excitement prevailed in Mathews on account of the horrible affray.

We are beginning to think, from close observation for the last fifteen years, that this is about the best portion of the cotton growing region; not because of the very large quantity produced to the acre (yet on this score there is little room for complaint) but because of the few disasters to which this crop is subject, and the uniformity of production. In this respect, perhaps, it is not surpassed by any part of the cotton growing region. The times are equal, and many of them have high notions of freedom from the present administration. I would therefore propose the first Monday in next month as a day for the meeting in Jacksonville to form the company.

on the east side of the Coosa river, in Ben-prospect of the Alabama and Tennessee

so much the more direct than any other as a desirable location for capitalists and

AGRICULTURAL.

from the American Farmer.

WORK FOR SEPTEMBER.

Knowing from experience how necessary it is for agriculturists to do all things at the right time—how essential such action is to success—we have uniformly endeavored to impress upon our readers the propriety of being ahead, rather than behind their work. And indulging the hope that they may have taken our advice, we shall proceed to state what should now claim their attention.

CULTURE OF WHEAT.

WHEAT.—This being the great market crop of most farmers—being the crop whence they derive their principal amount of money—its importance is of vital interest, and should always command the most profound consideration. All things connected with it from the selection of the seed, to the sale of the crop, form matters for serious reflection. The physical condition of the soil, whether wet or sound, the state of its fertility, the mode and depth of ploughing, the fineness of its tilth, the manner and depth of putting in the seed—the character of the manure, where any may be used, the quantity applied, and the mode of application, are all subjects of deep concern, and should be pondered on well.

There is another matter involving deep interests, which we fear is but too seldom attended to,—we allude to the time of cutting the grain.

Our readers will admit with us, that as the wheat crop approaches the period of its maturity, there is no single day within two weeks of its becoming ripe, when it is not environment by imminent peril and danger of being destroyed in whole or in part, by the dire and asidious enemy, the rust. So far as our information extends, in relation to its mischief was done within the three days immediately preceding harvest. Anticipating the danger of such a contingency, we took the liberty of advising our friends in our June and July numbers, to cut their grain some days before it was dead ripe. Fortune has it been, for those who took our advice, for while their crops have escaped unscathed, many of their neighbors have sustained losses equal to one-fourth or one third of their entire wheat crops, both in grain and straw.

Wheat and other grains may be cut 7 to 10 days before being dead ripe, with evident advantage to the grain in weight and in quality, and in the quantity of the flour; while the straw for purpose of feeding, is better in quality, and more in quantity.

Experiment upon experiment have established the truth of these averments, then why should farmers hesitate to embrace a practice which offers the only practical plan of avoiding the devastations of the rust, a disease utterly incurable, when it comes, and which lags at and derides every preventive agent?

The Snut, too, as we regret to have learned, has done very considerable injury; but as this is a disease perfectly controllable by wheat growers we sincerely hope that, in sowing this Fall, they will avail themselves of the simple preventive remedy among many others, which, for half a century, has proved infallible; though simple it is effectual, and we therefore most earnestly trust, that the little extra labor it may involve will not deter any from resorting to it, for if wheat is worthy of being grown, it is thrice worthy of being so put in as to offer every barrier against the effects of any disease, which may be within the reach of the grower.

PLoughing for WHEAT.

If the land to be cultivated in wheat, be a clover ley or grass sward, we would turn the furrow at least eight inches deep; roll so as to compress the furrow slices, then harrow, and until we had completely pulverized the soil; for we hold that much of the success of the wheat crop depend upon the depth and fineness of the surface soil. It should be deep enough to encourage the roots to seek a depth offering security against winter killing, and fine enough to obviate all impediments in their descent.

Whenever possible to be done the land should be subsoiled, as well as plough; the former operation, in our opinion, will, any time, add 25 per cent. to the productive capacity of any soil in land, net wet; wet land, before being subsoiled, should be drained. The day is not distant, when all intelligent farmers will as soon think of putting in their crops without ploughing as without subsoiling.

Garments of all descriptions, such as Gentlemen's Dress and undress Coats, Frock, Sacks, Ladies, Riding Habits &c., made to order in strict conformity with the prevailing fashions, and in the real Broadway style.

TIME OF SEEDING.

We have ever been the advocates of early sowing, and notwithstanding the oft-repeated attacks of the Hessian fly, which early-sown wheat plants are subject to, we remain unshaken in our belief of the propriety of the practice.

It is not our purpose to designate the day on which wheat should be sown; but merely to urge, that it should be sown as early in this month as possible; and to express the hope, that when done it may be well done, as the manner of putting in a crop exerts a powerful influence upon its product.

WATER FURROWS.

So soon as you have finished seeding run your water furrows, and pass the roller cross-wise over them.

QUANTITY OF SEED.

If sown broadcast, it will require 8 peck per acre; if by drill, 5 pecks per acre, will be ample; so that by drilling, 3 pecks of seed will be saved on each acre; a matter of considerable moment to the economical farmer, besides that, out of the many experiments made to test the relative productiveness of the two systems, the results are singular in favor of putting in wheat by the drilling machine.

CALCAREOUS MATTER FOR WHEAT.

Land on which wheat may be cut 7 to 10 days before being dead ripe, with evident advantage to the grain in weight and in quality, and in the quantity of the flour; while the straw for purpose of feeding, is better in quality, and more in quantity.

Experiment upon experiment have established the truth of these averments, then why should farmers hesitate to embrace a practice which offers the only practical plan of avoiding the devastations of the rust, a disease utterly incurable, when it comes, and which lags at and derides every preventive agent?

The Snut, too, as we regret to have learned, has done very considerable injury; but as this SPRING ROLLING.

Wheat-fields should always be rolled in the Spring, so soon as the frost is out of the ground, and the soil sufficiently firm to resist poaching from the horse's hoofs. It serves to replace the roots of the plants thrown out by the frost, and helps to consolidate the earth, gives an impetus to vegetation, and exerts a baneful influence generally.
